

Investigative Projects

EPIIC provides unusual opportunities for students to conduct research and investigative journalism projects related to its annual theme, both at home and abroad. The Institute for Global Leadership has supported more than 1,600 students traveling to more than 95 countries since 1986.

Students are able to take advantage of connections forged during the colloquium and symposium to pursue their interests and to create meaningful long term projects. EPIIC will collaborate this year with the Council for European Studies, and students will have the possibility to present their independent research at its annual forum in Philadelphia in April 2016, focusing on "Resilient Europe?".

Students are encouraged to develop their own topics, such as: religion and secularism in Europe; "frozen conflicts" and potential flashpoints on the borderlands of Europe; dilemmas of inequality, racism, and xenophobia; is there a democratic deficit in Europe; the "blowback" consequences of European colonialism; populism from Podemos to Syriza; secessionist movements...Catalonia...Scotland, etc.

International Students and EPIIC

Each year, EPIIC invites student delegations from international universities to the symposium week to expand the dialogue for them and for Tufts students. Last year, EPIIC brought more than 45 students from Brazil, China, Iraq, Israel, Russia, Singapore, South Korea, and Ukraine. EPIIC encourages Tufts students to develop research ideas with international students.

Texts

In addition to periodicals and papers, texts being considered for the two-semester course include: • Europe: The Struggle for Supremacy, from 1453 to the Present, Brendan Simms • Year Zero: A History of 1945, Ian Burma • 1989: The Struggle to Create Post-Cold War Europe, Mary Elise Sarotte • Flash Points: The Emerging Crisis in Europe, George Friedman • Turbulent and Mighty Continent: What Future for Europe? Anthony Giddens • Europe's Crisis, Europe's Future, eds. Kemal Dervis and Jacques Mistral • Resilient Liberalism in Europe's Political Economy, eds. Vivien Schmidt and Mark Thatcher • What does Europe Want? The Union and its Discontents, Slavoj Žižek and Srećko Horvat • Echoes of Empire: Memory, Identity and Colonial Legacies, Kalypso Nicolaïdis with Berny Sebe • Dynamics of Memory and Identity in Contemporary Europe, Eric Langenbacher • Xenophobia and Islamophobia in Europe, Raymond Taras • The New Old World: An Indian Journalist Discovers the Changing Face of Europe, Pallavi Aiyar • The French Intifada, The Long War Between France and its Arabs, Andrew Hussy • European Union Foreign Policy in a Changing World, Karen E. Smith

The Norris and Margery Bendetson EPIIC International Symposium

February 18-21, 2016

The international symposium is an annual public forum designed and enacted by the EPIIC students. It features scores of international practitioners, academics, public intellectuals, activists and journalists.

This year's Advisers and Panelists include:

Graham Allison, Director, Belfer Center for Science and International Affairs, Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University

Sheri Berman, Author, *The Primacy of Politics: Social Democracy and the Making of Europe's Twentieth Century

Tom Blanton, Director, National Security Archive

Ethan Corbin (F'14), Director, Defense and Security Committee, NATO Parliamentary Assembly

Mark Galeotti, Author, Russia's Wars in Chechnya, 1994-2009

Benedetta Giovanola, Researcher in Moral Philosophy, University of Macerata

Alan Henrikson, Professor of Diplomatic History, Director of Diplomatic Studies, The Fletcher School, Tufts University*

Gary Kasparov, Chair, International Council, Human Rights Foundation*

Lucas Kello, Senior Lecturer in International Relations; Director, Cyber Studies Program, Oxford University (EPIIC '96)

Uwe Kitzinger, Former British Economist, Council of Europe

Joachim Koops, Editor, Oxford Handbook of United Nations Peacekeeping Operations

Kalypso Nicolaïdis, Author, Echoes of Empire: Memory, Identity, and Colonial Legacies

Gwythian Prins, Member, Strategy Advisory Panel, Minister of Defence, United Kingdom

Annemarie Peen Rodt, Author, The European Union and Military Conflict Management: Defining, Evaluating and Achieving Success

Matthew Rojansky, Deputy Director, Russia and Eurasia Program, Carnegie Endowment for International Peace

Amb. John Shattuck, Former U.S. Ambassador, Czech Republic

Dimitri A. Sotiropoulos, University of Athens; Co-Editor, Is South-Eastern Europe Doomed to Instability?

Adm. James Stavridis U.S. Navy, (ret); Former Supreme Allied Commander, Europe; Dean, The Fletcher School, Tufts University

Siovañ Walker, Director, Council for European Studies, Columbia University

Abiodun Williams, President, Hague Institute for Global Justice

Special Opportunities and Projects

Social Justice and the EU - SOLSTICE

Join an international consortium on the EU approach to the interpretation and application of norms and international laws in regard to human rights, looking at the impact of EU engagement with human rights both within Europe and outside Europe. This effort will be led by Mario De Caro, Professor of Moral Philosophy, University of Roma Tre, and Erin Kelly, Chair of Philosophy, Tufts University.

Human Rights and EU Peacekeeping

On the 20th anniversary of the collapse of the "safe area" of Srebrenica and the largest massacre in Europe since WWII, work with analysts and scholars from the National Security Archive, The Hague Institute for Global Justice, and the Tufts Institute for Mass Atrocity and Genocide (IMAGE) to research this atrocity.

Civil Society and Non Violent Resistance

Study with experts and scholars from CANVAS (Center for Applied Non-Violent Action and Strategies), including Srđja Popovic, founder of Otpor! and a key figure in the nonviolent struggle against Slobodan Milosevic, and Tufts Fletcher School Professor of the Practice Eileen Babbitt.

Media, Freedom of Expression, and Hate Speech

Probe the dimensions of this controversial continuum with such journalists, media experts and activists as Zineb El Rhazoui, former columnist at Charlie Hebdo; Thomas Hughes, Executive Director, Article 19: Defending Freedom of Expression and Information; Razia Iqbal, Presenter, BBC Newshour; and Kenan Malik, author of From Fatwa to Jihad: The Rushdie Affair and its Legacy.

The Power and Politics of Memory

Join an investigation into the ongoing impact and repercussions on contemporary European politics and culture of Franco's Spain, France's reconciliation with its Vichy Regime, Germany with its Holocaust past, lustration and post-Communist societies.

Migration

Join a research team investigation into the causes and human and societal costs of immigration, led by such experts as Paolo Cuttitta, post-doctoral researcher at VU University of Amsterdam.

Tufts European Horizons EU Chapter

Participate in the creation of a Tufts chapter of European Horizons, a US-based nonpartisan think tank exploring European identity, the concept of the social market economy, European integration, and transatlantic relations.

European Roma

Think and work with distinguished human rights and global health experts, including Margareta Matache, FXB Project Director at the Harvard School of Public Health, to address the profound marginalization of the Roma community in Europe.

The European Security Environment

Explore Russian-European security relations, EU-NATO relations, and hybrid warfare and the Baltics with the IGL's ALLIES program and military and security experts, including Michael Peznola, the IGL's Executive Director (Col, USMC (Ret.); Lt.Col Donald Thieme, Professor of Policy Analysis, US Naval War College; and Professor Richard Shultz, Director, International Security Studies, The Fletcher School.

* confirmed in principle

The Future of Europe

EPIIC 2015-2016

EXP 0091F

Tuesdays and Thursdays, 3:00-5:30pm

Sherman Teichman

Bi-monthly Discussion Sessions TBA

www.tuftsgloballeadership.org

EPIIC is open to undergraduate and graduate students of all majors.

EPIIC coursework can count toward credit in many majors.

Full Credit /Letter Graded

All interested students must come to the first class on Tuesday, September 8, Crane Room

Tufts
UNIVERSITY

THE INSTITUTE FOR GLOBAL LEADERSHIP

The Future of Europe

"A united Europe is not a modern expedient, be it political or economic, but an ideal which has been accepted since thousands of years by the best spirits of Europe, namely those who can see into the future. Already Homer described Zeus as 'europos' – an adjective meaning 'one who sees very far'. – Denis de Rougemont, Vingt-huit siecles d'Europe (1961)

Histories of Europe can be divided into two types: the histories of the region and the histories of the idea of Europe. The former tends to focus on the political, social and economic collaborations and devastating discord that have culminated in the Europe of today; the latter on the very essence of what it means to be of Europe, an alleged European consciousness, its cultural and moral underpinnings.

From Berlin to London, from Oslo to Rome, from Warsaw to Ceuta, EPIIC will consider the future of Europe through multiple prisms, from the antecedents of Church-State relations to the collapse of Communism and Russia's resurgence; from Montesquieu's concept of the separation of powers to Arendt's "perplexities" regarding citizenship and statelessness and today's migration crises; from the Treaty of Westphalia to the Treaty of Maastricht and the future of the European Union; from the ascendancy of neo-liberal economics to the Copenhagen Accord on climate change; and from the Declaration of Human Rights to the Dublin Agreement on asylum seekers. What are the policies and ideas that define Europe?

Europe, in its long history, has witnessed many wars on its soil. The European Union was borne of an effort to seek a lasting peace through democracy, prosperity and an international, rules-based order of effective multilateralism.

Today, the region faces a new threshold that challenges the overall stability and security it experienced throughout the latter half of the twentieth century and the advent of the twenty-first. It is contending with internal divisions and fragmentation and external hostilities and encroachment, as well as a deep lack of trust within the E.U. The threats range from Russian revanchism to Greek debt and the euro-zone economic crisis, from Europe's vulnerability to the growing threat of cyber attacks and hybrid warfare to the continent's migration crisis.

Other issues EPIIC will address throughout the year include: evolving national identity, from separatist enclaves and autonomy claims to national integration of migrant workers and refugees • financial issues such as the growing wealth gap, fiscal instability, corruption, austerity and the future of the welfare state • the foreign policy of the EU and its stated commitments to democratic norms and human rights within Europe and beyond • the current, and future role of NATO • balancing its internal and external security concerns • militant radicalization, human trafficking, and the diversification of organized crime • the tensions between free speech/freedom of expression and hate speech • the EU's democratic deficit • the rise of populist parties and the Eurosceptic movement • the integration of its growing Muslim population • the effort to stabilize fledgling democracies in Eastern Europe • the consequences of European colonialism and intervention • the rise in anti-Semitism • the North-South divide within the EU • the EU's rapid expansion • and Britain's 2017 national referendum on its membership in the EU.

Understanding the changing nature of the U.S.-Europe partnership – including the "special relationship" between the U.S. and Britain, the changing role of German-French relations, and the U.S.-Russia relationship – will also be critical to addressing future global security issues.

How will Europe evolve to meet its new challenges? How will it define itself, and be defined, in the 21st century?

Colloquium Lecturers and Advisers include:

Carlo Bastasin, Author, Saving Europe: Anatomy of a Dream

Mark Blyth, Author, The Future of the Euro and Austerity: The History of a Dangerous Idea

James Cronin, Author, Global Rules: America, Britain, and a Disordered World

Henrike Dessaules, Programs Coordinator, Council for European Studies, Columbia University

Ioannis Evrigenis, Professor of Political Science, Tufts University; Author, Images of Anarchy: The Rhetoric and Science in Hobbes' State of Nature

Irena Gross, Chair, Trust for Civil Society in East Central Europe

Jolyon Howorth, Author, Security and Defense Policy in the European Union

Yannis Ioannides, Professor of Economics, Tufts University; Author, *Looking Beyond the Greek Crisis

Laurent Jacque, Professor of Economics, The Fletcher School, Tufts University

Marvin Kalb, Author, *Imperial Gamble: Putin, Ukraine, and the New Cold War

Mark Kramer, Program Director, Project on Cold War Studies, Davis Center for Russian and Eurasian Studies, Harvard University

Robert Legvold, Former Director, Euro-Atlantic Security Initiative, Carnegie Endowment for International Peace

Maud Mandel, Author, *Muslims and Jews in France: History of a Conflict

Mitchell Orenstein, Author, Out of the Red: Building Capitalism and Democracy in Post-Communist Europe

Ruxandra Paul, Author, Citizens of the Market: New Forms of International Migration and Their Consequences (forthcoming)

Nikos Passas, Author, Controlling Terrorist Financing (forthcoming)

Jean-Louis Romanet Perroux, PhD Candidate, The Fletcher School, Tufts University; Consultant, Libya and Civil Society, UNICEF

Mary Elise Sarotte, Author, *The Collapse: The Accidental Opening of the Berlin Wall

Vivien Schmidt, Director, Center for the Study of Europe, Boston University; Author, Democracy in Europe: The EU and National Politics

Oxana Shevel, Professor of Political Science, Tufts University; Author, Migration, Refugee Policy, and State Building in Postcommunist Europe

Enrico Spolaore, Professor of Economics, Tufts University, Author, "What is European Integration Really About? A Political Guide for Economists"

Richard Weiner, Author, Cultural Marxism and Political Sociology
* confirmed in principle

EPIIC Weekend Immersion

October 2-4, 2015

Outward Bound at Appalachian Mountain Club,
Pinkham Notch, New Hampshire

This is a weekend of teambuilding and lectures with a guest scholar/practitioner.

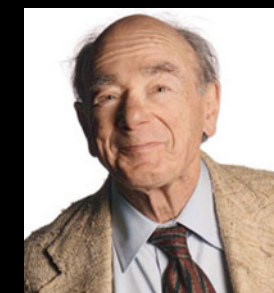

INSPIRE Scholar

Sebastián Royo, Vice Provost and Professor of Government at Suffolk University, will be one of this year's INSPIRE Scholars. His research focuses on comparative political economy in Southern Europe. At CES, he is Co-Chair of the Study Group "A Center-Periphery Europe? Perspectives from Southern Europe". He is the author of several books, including Lessons from the Economic Crisis in Spain (2013), Portugal in the 21st Century (edited 2011), and Varieties of Capitalism in Spain (2008). He has published articles in Governance, Review of Political Economy and many other journals.

Dedication: Stanley Hoffmann

This year's EPIIC is dedicated to Professor Stanley Hoffmann, the Paul and Catherine Buitendijk University Professor and Former Chairman of the Center for European Studies at Harvard University. Kalypto Nicolaïdis, Director of the Center for International Studies at the University of Oxford, will give a keynote address at the symposium in his honor.*

Over three decades, Professor Hoffmann's intellectual and political thinking on American foreign policy, post-World War II European history, the sociology of war, international politics, ethics and world affairs, modern political ideologies, and the development of the modern state has influenced and informed the debates and programming of the IGL.

He was a recipient of the Institute's Dr. Jean Mayer Award for Global Citizenship in 2003.